

There's Nun Like Her!

featuring Sr. Albertine's College Kids

During my years of teaching, I shared with my students much love and enjoyed many wonders in God's creation. Many of my little Fourth Graders have gone to college and I am so proud of them.

*May God Bless You All,
Sr. Albertine*

Sean Duncan graduated from St. Ann's in '96, Wildwood Catholic in '00, and Loyola College in Baltimore in '04. He started teaching in New Orleans in the "Teach for America" Program. His second year in New Orleans had been underway a few weeks when "Katrina" struck. Within two weeks he was working with displaced students at a new school outside of New Orleans.

The following year in '06, he began working with students in a KIPP (Knowledge is Power Program) School called BELIEVE COLLEGE PREP. He is now the Upper School Dean, where he is both Teacher and Administrator. He has a Masters Degree from National Louis University. As part of his studies he spent the summer of '08 at New York University. This is his 6th year as a Teacher in New Orleans. He Loves Teaching and he Loves New Orleans. He speaks well of the teachers at St Ann's and Wildwood Catholic.

2008 Wildwood Catholic HS grad, Robbie Matteucci made the Dean's List both semesters at Catholic University of America in Washington, DC, and is now double majoring in Politics: International Relation and History.

He spent the summer working an internship in Congressman LoBiondo's office in Mays Landing and will be working an internship at Capital Hill for the Congressman.

Anthony Gallo is a 1990 St. Ann's graduate, Wildwood High 1994 graduate and Trenton State 1999 graduate. He is currently enrolled in Master's for Educational Leadership Program at Rowan University. He has been teaching for 9 years and has recently been named Teacher of the Year at Cherokee HS in Marlton, NJ where he teaches American History.

Katherine Lederer in her daughter Victoria's dorm room at Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio. This particular visit was to see her swim at the North Coast Atlantic Conference Swim Championship in Canton, Ohio. She placed third in the 200 breaststroke and second in the 400 IM. She qualified to swim at the NCAA National Swimming Championships in March 2009 at the University of Minnesota.

Victoria Lederer has declared Chemistry as her major with a concentration in Art History. Upon completion of her undergraduate degree she hopes to get a graduate degree in Art Conservation/Preservation.

Victoria hasn't changed much since grade school; she always has a smile, never talks about herself or any accomplishments, goes on and on about how interesting her classes are, and is usually reading multiple books at the same time.
